Dancing

Classes

During the ETDS there are different classes. This makes that you always dance against people of your own level. This ETDS will have three main classes:

- Beginners
- Breitensport
- Open

Beginners are the dancers who dance for one year or less and have no competition experience (including ETDS/NTDS). As COVID-19 made it impossible for a lot of us to dance, we will keep the date to the 1st of September 2019.

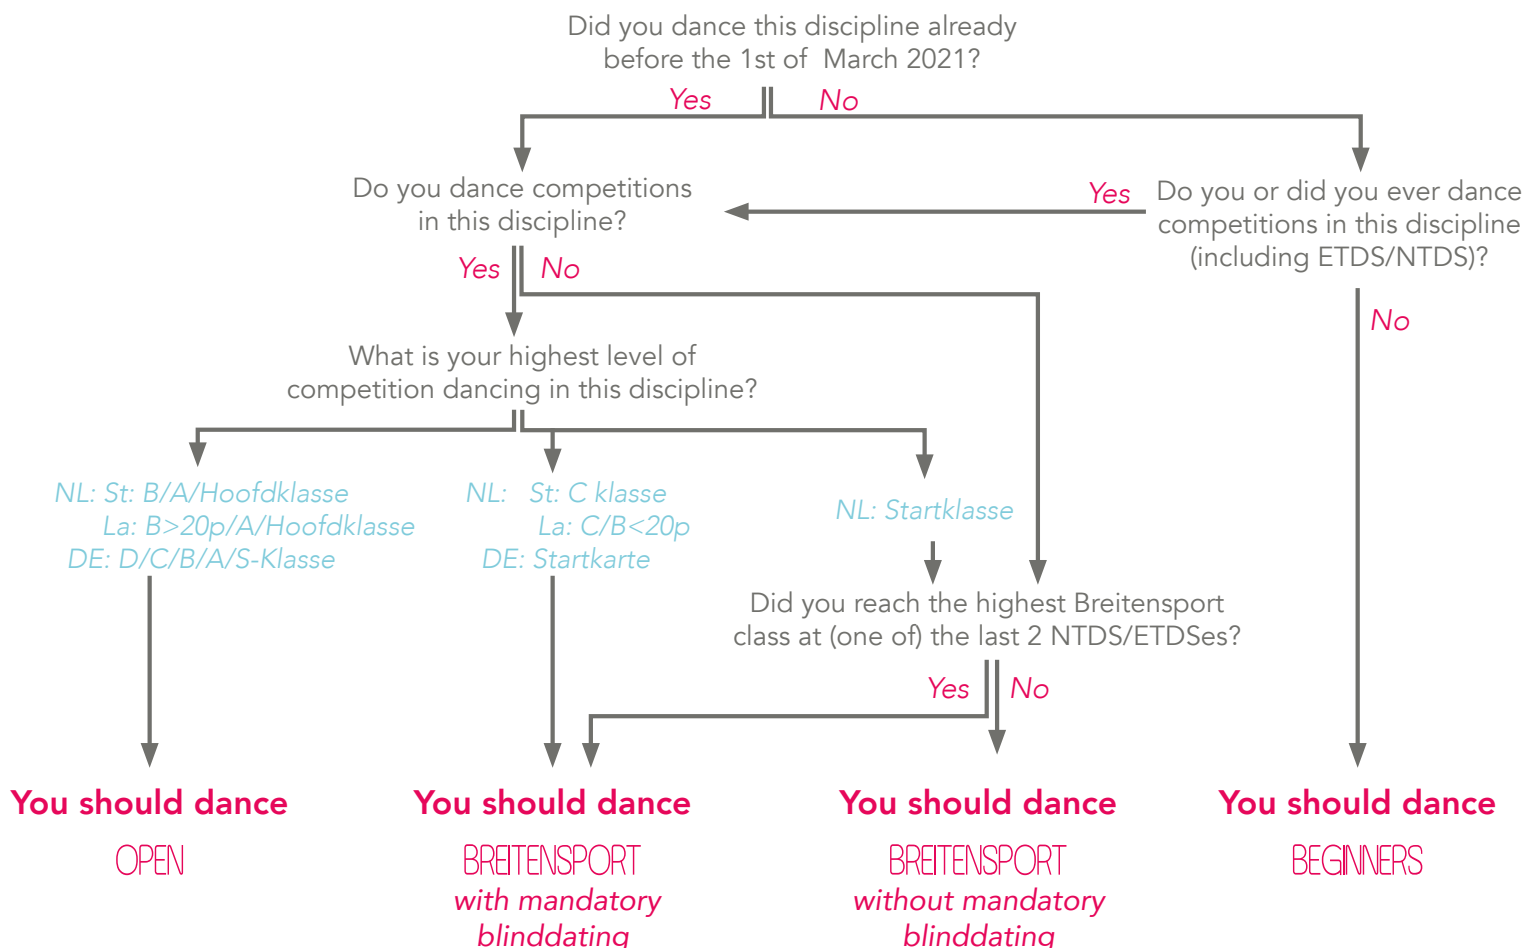

Breitensport is the largest class, most dancers will be dancing in this class. Blind dating is obligatory for some of the Breitensport dancers. This depends on your level of competition dancing. The Breitensport starts with a qualification round. This is to determine your level. After this round everyone is placed in one or the four divisions; Amateurs, Professionals, Masters and Champions (from high to low).

The Open class dancers are the ones who actively dance competitions at a higher level. Blind dating is obligatory for this class. The Open class starts with a qualification round as well and will be split in two classes; The Rising Ravers (formerly known as Closed) and the Risen Robots (formerly known as Open).

Not sure what class you should dance in? Follow the flowchart below!

In which class should I dance?

The division per class is per discipline. Being required to compete in one class in one discipline does not have any effect on the other discipline

Rounds

The competition starts with a qualification round for the Breitensport. For beginners there won't be a qualification round. Instead they will have a general look. This is a round to get used to dancing competitions and is not adjudicated.

After the qualification and general look the real competition will start with a first round, a redance, a 1/4 final and so on to the final.

Dances

Depending on the class you are dancing in, you can get extra dances each round. This goes as follows:

Standard dances	Qualification / Redance / First round / 1/4 final	Semi Final	Final

Clothes

Official competition clothing is not allowed at the ETDS. This normally means; no full dresses or tail suits, no feathers and stones etc. Of course you are all free to wear whatever you feel comfortable in. However, some guidelines may help. So what to wear?

For the ladies:

Wear a simple dress or skirt. Take something that covers breasts, belly and buttocks. Wear a short pants underneath your skirt if you are not sure everything is covered while moving. If you dance on heels, heel protectors are obligatory.

For the men:

Jackets have shoulder pads that look quite ugly when keeping your arms up so you might not want to wear those. Wearing a vest and a button down shirt is nice. Moreover, choose trousers in which you can move freely.

Drinks & food

The food that will be provided is during the ETDS is:

- A snack on Friday
- Breakfast and lunch on Saturday
- Breakfast, lunch and dinner on Sunday

The exact menu for lunch and dinner will be on our website one month before the start of the ETDS. There will be food provided for people with allergies. There is also food for vegetarians and vegans, if you have mentioned this at your registration. People who didn't mention in the system to be vegan/vegetarian are not allowed to take this food.

You don't need to bring your own cutlery, cup and plate!

During Breakfast and Lunch drinks like milk, coffee and tea will be provided. You can also buy drinks and extra food during the ETDS at the cafe that is located in the tournament venue. Keep in mind that you have to pay with card!

There will be continuous breakfast/lunch on Saturday and Sunday. This means that you can come back for more food and/or have your breakfast at your preferred time. However, we don't have unlimited food. So please take just a little bit of food at once and come back later to get more if you are still hungry. Please don't waste our food and keep your tables clean!

On Saturday, we recommend you to head into town (just a short walk or bus ride) and enjoy a nice diner in Delft. Please make sure to make a reservation though. There is also food available at the sports cafe at the venue. If you (and your team) want to have diner here, you have to let us know through the form on our website.

Menu

Saturday (not included):

- Cauliflower-coconut curry with spinach, fresh herbs, fried onions and lime

Sunday:

- Well-filled pasta bolognese (meat, gluten free)
- Pasta puttanesca - Pasta with tomato sauce, capers, olives, bell pepper (vega(n))

Sleeping

At the ETDS there is a possibility to sleep at the sleeping hall. This hall is an empty sports hall where you sleep with everyone together. If you choose to sleep in the sleeping halls (and mentioned this at your registration), bring an air mattress, sleeping bag etc. Earplugs and a sleeping mask are recommended (it can be noisy and some safety lights will be on during the entire night). Please don't bring a 2-person air mattress if you are just using it on your own!

The sleeping halls don't need to be empty during the day! However, the halls will be locked during the tournament, from 11:00 - 16:00h. So make sure to take all the stuff you need when you leave in the morning.

Visitors

Visitors are allowed during this ETDS. As a visitor you can support everyone during the competitions and/or dance all night long during the party. Unfortunately we can't arrange sleeping spots or food/drinks for the visitors.

Visitors are welcome on Saturday and on Sunday. There are day-tickets and night-tickets.

- Day-tickets: 5,00 euro
- Night-tickets: 7,50 euro

Night-tickets can't be bought at the door. You need to make a reservation and be a member of a student dancing association to be able to join the parties. For more information on this; see our website.

Volunteering

Everyone who participates in the competition (so no visitors) has to volunteer. Shifts will be assigned per team in the xTDS portal. Your team captain will assign you with a shift. If this is done, you can see your shifts in the xTDS portal. Please note that without these shifts, there can't be an ETDS. So make sure that you are really there at the time of your shift!

Furthermore, we are always happy with some extra help! So check the portal to see the shifts that are still free and sign up!

Task description

A specific task description per volunteering shift is shown below. This might be extended with more shifts later.

Regular shifts

Sleeping hall / Tournament hall guard

In this shift you take place at the entry of the tournament hall or sleeping halls and ask people going in or out to show their badge. This is necessary to keep unwanted guests away from the event and your belongings. These shifts are obligatory helping hours. All team captains receive a list of shifts appointed for their team and divide these shifts amongst their team members.

Catering shift

In this shift you take care of one of the catering rounds: breakfast, lunch, dinner or snack. Depending on the shift tasks include preparation, serving or cleaning up. These shifts are obligatory helping hours. All team captains receive a list of shifts appointed for their team and divide these shifts amongst their team members.

Bar shift

In this shift you take care of the bar in the tournament hall. This includes selling drinks to participants and visitors, and refilling inventory if necessary.

Reception

During this shift you handle the registrations for participants. As a receptionist, it is your job to welcome our lovely guests and prepare them for our event. You will make sure everybody gets their badge, give them directions and share necessary information.

Info desk

The information desk is where people come over if they have questions. These can be participants, team captains, crew and visitors. Your working place is situated next to the tournament stage in the tournament hall. It is also your job to be a first point of contact for questions, suggestions and complaints. Such that the people on stage (tournament office, DJ, moderators) can do their jobs without being interrupted.

Tournament hall preparation

This shift is to prepare the tournament hall for an upcoming competition or party. It mainly consists of cleaning up and making sure all tables and benches are in the correct positions. Before the parties this shift takes care of decorating the tournament hall.
